

ABSTRACT

Method and apparatus for servicing of a bore hole in the earth, comprising a first sub-assembly adapted for the insertion and removal of a continuous length of coiled tubing into and from the bore hole, a second sub-assembly adapted for the vaporization of liquified gas and the pumping of the resulting gas through the coiled tubing into the bore hole and a platform to support both the first and second sub-assemblies thereon.